Mr Marsden

Today is Holocaust Memorial Day, which always falls on 27th January as this is the anniversary of the liberation of the Auschwitz-Birkenau Concentration and Death Camp in 1945. Over one million people were murdered by the Nazis at this camp, among the six million Jews and other minority groups who were the victims of the Holocaust. Today we think about all those people, and those who have died in more recent genocides. We must never forget. Thank you to Mr Coleman for leading assemblies throughout the week.

You will be aware by now that there will be some disruption to school on Wednesday next week due to strike action involving some teachers. It is important for you to know that this is part of a national disagreement between the National Education Union and the government, and is not related to anything specific to our school. Year 9 pupils will be remaining at home on this day, but you have plenty of revision to be doing for your exams the following week! There may be some changes for the other year groups in school, although mostly your day should carry on as normal. I'm sorry for the impact on your school day but this is necessary to ensure that school can run smoothly and safely for everyone.

Have a great weekend.

Mr Marsden
